NO THIRD TERM FOR THE PRESIDENT.

He Issues a Statement Quietening a Lot of Needless Talk—No Great Questions Need Be Prejudiced.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]
The President today settled all talk of a third term by the following ringing announcement:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the administration and country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of the thought of a third term. In view, therefore, of the reiteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing long-settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me. My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then, with them, to do my duty in the ranks of private citizenship."

[Signed] "WILLIAM McKINLEY."
"Executive Mansion, Washington, June 10, 1901."

This announcement was handed out from the White House this noon, and is the result of the Cabinet meetings held last evening and this morning.
Late yesterday the President went riding with Secretary of the Navy Long, in whose political acumen he has great faith. He told Secretary Long that it would be his duty to announce that he would not be a candidate for a third term. There was some discussion as to whether such announcement was necessary, but both the President and Secretary Long thought it would be a very good plan to make an announcement and stop the gossip. They finally decided that a Cabinet meeting would better be called, not to discuss the possibilities of a third term, but to decide whether the gossip about it was worth an answer from the President. The Cabinet meeting was held at the White House last evening, and before it was over the President and his official family had agreed that it was due to the people of the country to set the silly gossip at rest.

It was so late when the meeting ended, last evening, that the making of the announcement was postponed until after the Cabinet meeting today. The

The President's announcement called forth hardy's purport in Washington. No surprise was expressed that he had made such a statement, for many of his political friends have expected that he would soon settle the talk of a third term by saying that he would have none of it.

Secretary Wilson said: "The talk is of no importance. The President has merely stopped some summer gossip; that is all."

In fact, the general attitude was that some people had suddenly unwittingly, been talking seriously about an impossible thing, and that the sooner that sort of business was brought to an end, the better it would be for the President, for the country, and for the Republican party. The President hopes that he may serve out a good part of the remainder of his term without having any very great amount of politics injected into it.

Speaking of the President's action, Senator Edmund Smith said: "This act of self-abnegation on the part of the President is another proof of his patriotic public spirit, and his greatness. In taking this step he not only followed his personal inclinations, but he acted from a deep sense of duty, and from his belief in a principle of our institutions which he thinks is absolute and unchangeable. Beyond this, his administration is dealing with great public questions of first magnitude, which he feels should everywhere be considered fully and exclusively in their merits, without the possibility of an impediment in any quarter of a personal thought or purpose. It might be said that he has acted at this stage of his life to give any expression on the subject, but he felt that a perfectly free and untrammeled consideration of these questions required him to speak so that no other possible issue could be introduced."

Secretary Long's view of the announcement, as far as his own discussion, by this act, has given another evidence of his wisdom and patriotism. I am satisfied personally that he does not desire a third term, and he is willing to accept a third term after eight years of the burdens and responsibilities of office, he will look forward to the relief of private life.
As a matter of principle and conviction, also, he would not accept a third term, and has evidently felt it his duty to confirm the traditions of his country in this respect. This action of his, I believe, will do more than anything else can do to settle the question for all time. The whole thing is another evidence of the President's right-mind-ness, disinterestedness and entire consecration to the best interests of his country, and the obligations of his great trust."

Comptroller of the Currency Daves, who enjoys the personal and political confidence of the President, and who has talked with him in the last few days about the third-term gossip, said to the Times correspondent this evening:
"The President's announcement is what the people of the country who have come to know his private views, expected. To his friends, his views on the third-term question always have been freely expressed. It is not generally known, but nothing but a sense of duty led the President to consent to a second nomination.
Personally, he felt he had little to gain and much to lose by a second term.
The President is a domestic man, and in the midst of the anxiety and perplexity of his mind, his mind has been constantly turned toward his quiet Canton home, a return to which both he and his wife have looked forward with anxious anticipation."

The President already is deluged with telegrams commending of his announcement putting at rest all third-term rumors, and telegrams are being arriving at the White House this evening, and are from prominent persons throughout the country. They place emphasis on the opportunity of a statement and the beneficial effect on the country from a political standpoint. None of the telegrams was made public.

MARK'S REMARKS.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.
CLEVELAND, June 11.—"It is just what I expected the President would say, if he said anything at all on the subject," was the comment of Senator Hanna today, when he read the President's statement in reference to a third term.
"I have never exchanged one word with the President concerning the matter," he continued, "and have considered all the talk bearing on the matter as premature. According to my judgment, it is too early to discuss Presidential candidates for the next term."
Asked if he was in favor of maintaining the precedent established by Washington in regard to the number of years that the President should hold office, Senator Hanna said: "I don't think the precedent established by Washington has much to do with the matter.
But there is no doubt, a strong sentiment among the people against such a proposition."

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the glass with a yellowish or brownish stain, it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-

Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scald-ing pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night.

The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

THE MINING FIELDS
RED COPPER FLOOD SPREADING IN WEST.
ARIZONA AND NEW MEXICO ARE INCREASING PRODUCTION.

Red Cloud and Bishop Copper Mines Sold—St. George Changes Hands for a Consideration—King of Arizona Makes Important Strike.

Important copper finds have lately been made in New Mexico, which now boasts of numerous districts that show rich. Around Mendocino flat in not the least important section of that country; it is one of the most promising. Throughout the entire district, which is not far from Butte, many mines are now taking out copper ore in quantities that seem incredible to an outsider.

Throughout Arizona are fields too numerous to mention, but in one and all copper is king.

PICKED FROM THE DUMP.
Another copper mine in the St. George country has been sold, the price given being $100,000. The mines of that country are sought after on account of their great richness and the possibilities of early railway facilities.

Work has been resumed at the recent gold strike near Gleason. A contract has been let by the Wisconsin mine to sink fifty feet further. This would give the shaft a depth of 150 feet. Indications are favorable for a good paying mine there, and it is expected development work will prove this.

An important sale has just been consummated, the properties involved being the copper mines lying in the Buckskin Mountains north of the Colorado River, known as the Red Cloud and Bishop mines. The sale, which includes water rights and mill sites, was made for $200,000.

Another strike has been made by the King of Arizona. It is reported a body of men from the west, the King has been discovered. The find was made at a depth of 400 feet in a vertical shaft which was being sunk to intercept the main ledge. The King now has sufficient ore in sight to guarantee its being a gold producer for many years to come.

Railway Commissioners' Thrilling Ride.

Trip to Mt. Lowe Made Them Dizzy.

Chaplain's Services Needed to Quiet Nerves—Los Angeles Hospitality.

"It was well that the visiting Railway Commissioners brought a sky-pilot with them on their tour of the Coast. They needed him yesterday when they ascended the dizzy heights of Mt. Lowe. That was as near the sky as most of them had ever got, and the services of a pilot to see them through the thrilling experience did not come amiss.

The sky-pilot of the party is the Rev. Mr. Marvin Harris of Dearborn, Mo. Mr. Harris has won some fame as a "boy evangelist." He was invited to be a member of the Railway Commissioners' party by the members of the Railway Commission of the State of Missouri, in token of their appreciation of the good work done by Evangelist Harris among the railroad employees of Missouri. Perhaps it is only evidence of the tendency of all Missourians toward piety that they elected to furnish a chaplain for the touring Railway Commissioners.

course they didn't steal any fruit. They simply annexed a quantity, the novelty of the excursion being a very pleasant feature of the excursion. The trip up the Echo Mountain incline in the white chairlifts made some of the visitors feel as though they were ascending the golden stairs indeed, and the trolley ride beyond, along the brink of precipitous and tortuous windings of the Millard and Grand canyons, up and upward, till Alpine Springs was reached, quite astounded the travelers and made them hold their breaths for awe and admiration.

GLAD HAND EXTENDED.

Returning to the city last night in time for supper, the excursionists again turned out after the evening repast to partake further of Southern California hospitality. The evening function consisted of a reception at the Chamber of Commerce, which most of the visitors attended. The officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and the Board of Trade and many of the members of those bodies and prominent citizens generally, acted as a reception committee. The Venetian Ladies' Mandolin Club furnished music, and the reception rooms of the chamber were prettily decorated. The famous Wigwag punch was on tap, and although the excursionists were weary from the long day's trip, they were in the mood to enjoy the hospitality in large installations.

FORMAL WELCOME.

President A. B. Case of the Chamber of Commerce made the introductory remarks of welcome and introduced Hon. T. E. Gibson to make the formal speech of the evening. Mr. Gibson did this in his usual graceful way. He read an interesting paper setting forth what the railways of the country had done for its development, and referred to the relations between the roads and the people, and the influence of the people, through the influence of such bodies as the National Interstate Commerce Commission and State Boards of Railway Commissioners. He closed by bidding the visiting and American citizenship. Gen. Gobin referred to a former visit which he made to Los Angeles sixteen years ago, and told of the wonderful progress that had been made since then.

Gen. Gobin, besides being Lieutenant-Governor of the Keystone State, is also commander of the Third Brigade of the Pennsylvania National Guard and a veteran officer of the Civil War. He was in command of the troops during the recent labor riots in Pennsylvania which had to be quelled by the State troops.

ELOQUENT ALABAMA.

The last address of the evening at the Chamber of Commerce reception was made by Hon. John V. Smith, president of the Alabama Railway Commission. Mr. Smith looks very much like William J. Bryan, and he also possesses some of the Bryanese eloquence. His subject last night was "The Ladies," and he not only delivered a more glowing tribute to the worth of the queen of the South, Mr. Smith is accompanied on his journey by his charming daughter, Miss Carrie C. Smith.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

After the speech-making the guests scattered about the exhibit hall and viewed the fine collection of Southern California products forming the permanent Chamber of Commerce exhibit. All expressed much gratification with the reception and the exhibit.

Some of the party indulged in dancing during the latter part of the evening, and Mr. Flood, president of the Chicago Shipping Clerks' Association, who is a member of the party, sang the "Holy City" and some rag-time melodies to an accompaniment by the orchestra. Mr. Flood is the comedian of the party, and his vocal efforts were much appreciated.

This morning President E. P. Clark of the Los Angeles and Pacific Railroad will take the visitors for a trolley ride through the Chatsworth Valley, going via Hollywood to the Soldiers' Home, and returning via Pio Heights. The start will be made from Fourth and Hill streets at 8 o'clock.

After returning from the trolley ride the excursionists will be taken around

OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS TAKE THE TRIP OF THEIR LIVES ON MOUNT LOWE.

The chaplain is not a member of the Ananias Club. It is understood that he applied for membership, but was black-listed because he had not established sufficient reputation as a preacher. He was kept in the background until the ascent of Mt. Lowe was begun, then the members of the party, especially those who had no membership in the Ananias Club, were glad to avail themselves of the sky-pilot's services.

TWIST EARTH AND SKY.

It was not until the trolley cars bearing the excursionists began to climb the verge of precipitous cliffs and feet in height that the foresight of the pious Missourians in providing a chaplain for the excursion was appreciated. The services of the Rev. Mr. Harris were very much in demand as the trolley bounced along between earth and sky, when the spreading of a rail or the breaking of a wheel or similar mishap would have meant a sheer plunge of a thousand feet or more to certain death. However, the trip was a most successful one, and the excursionists returned to the valley below over their tracks.

SOOTHED BY THE SURF.

The party spent the night aboard their special train at the long wharf at Port Los Angeles. Soothed by the music of the surf, which was a strange melody to the ears of the excursionists, they were very refreshing night's rest after their long and arduous journey. They were to leave Santa Monica for Los Angeles and Mt. Lowe at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, but the excursionists were so fascinated that it was nearly noon before Col. Blackstock, their chaplain, and the other members of the party boarded the cars for Los Angeles. They made but a brief stay in this city, and then proceeded to Pasadena, where they were to spend the night.

GEN. GOBIN'S FINE SPEECH.

Gen. Gobin, Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania, was inadvertently introduced by President Case as being from Illinois, but the general soon proved that he is no "Sucker." He said he was prepared to believe anything he heard in or out of California, but he did not say anything about the state of California.

Only thirty-two members of the party made the trip up the mountain, the rest electing to spend the time in visiting friends and seeing the sights in the valley. At Altadena a stop was made on a side where the excursionists were given a chance to raid an orange orchard and pick oranges from the trees.

BLACKSTOCK RESPONDS.

Col. N. B. Blackstock of Ventura, member of the California State Board of Railway Commissioners, responded and made a further address of welcome on behalf of Los Angeles and Southern California generally. It was mainly through the efforts of Col. Blackstock that the National Association of State Railway Commissioners held its annual session in San Francisco this year. He related his efforts during the last two previous conventions to persuade the association to come to the Coast for an annual meeting, and said he believed not one of them would ever regret making the trip. Col. Blackstock is personally conducting the excursion of the visitors in Southern California, and he outlined the programme of good things yet in store for them.

Hon. Robert P. Graham, Tax-Commissioner of the State of Maryland, was called upon by President Case for a further response. Mr. Graham hailed from Salisbury, Wicomico county, near the southern extremity of Maryland's famous Eastern Shore. It is a land where the canvas-back duck, the diamond-back terrapin, the Chesapeake Bay oyster, strawberries, peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes flourish, and the products served Mr. Graham as text for a portion of his remarks. He yielded the palm to California, however, on most things and humorously depicted the glories of this climate and the wealth of its resources.

GEN. GOBIN'S FINE SPEECH.

Gen. Gobin, Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania, was inadvertently introduced by President Case as being from Illinois, but the general soon proved that he is no "Sucker." He said he was prepared to believe anything he heard in or out of California, but he did not say anything about the state of California.

Only thirty-two members of the party made the trip up the mountain, the rest electing to spend the time in visiting friends and seeing the sights in the valley. At Altadena a stop was made on a side where the excursionists were given a chance to raid an orange orchard and pick oranges from the trees.

THE OIL FIELDS.

WHEN OIL MEN HAVE BAD HALF HOURS.

LOCAL OPERATORS IN WESTERN END TASTE HARD LUCK.

Cleaning Casing in Kern River Field by Compressed Air—Entire Santa Fe System to Use Oil-New Incorporations in Arizona.

There is an old saw, cherished by the brotherhood of oil well drillers, which runs: "Every well that's drilled is not an oil well."

Within the past week the fate of several local prospect holes have been sealed, and no a few local investors have had their bad half hour.

There is the endeavor of the Sterling Oil Company to find oil on the Grid tract, which, after the drill had been sent in 140 feet, was this week abandoned.

FROM KERN'S FIELDS.

CONFIRMED AIR AND RAIN.

BAKERFIELD, June 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) In all probability the trouble and delay which arise from having sand in various parts of the oil field, has been found in the Kern fields.

to respect an extraordinary calendar for the week. This friend is a married woman; her husband is in a good business with an ample income; she has a handsome home, has good servants, and a most charming and energetic and faithful. She has five children, but she was not able to visit the school attended by her four little daughters during the entire year because it was impossible to find time. I do not believe that this woman's case is so exceptional as it may seem at first sight. There is an intoxication of constant association with the same circle to be dependent in making her judgments, upon the judgments of others. Her own view comes to be urden. The point of the story is that the schoolhouse was not recently built. The early generations of its pupils had been valued by him as charming little neighbors, with whom he had studied and grown up. He had been told for ten years that the manners of the children have been growing worse and worse, until at last the universal want of respect for the property rights and the social privileges of others compelled him to move. Let me add that this removal was not from what we are accustomed to call one of the poorest districts of a city, but was not from a factory district, where working people live; it was from an uptown district that my friend was its relation to other social institutions. The club should offer in its discussions examples of accurate and exacting standards of literary criticism of refined manners, the creator of an exacting standard of literary criticism. It should realize its functions as a means of relaxation and, above all, it should recognize itself as a means, not as an end. It should cease to exaggerate its achievements; it should bear in mind that club women do not constitute a distinct social class, that club women comprise women of every class, of all degrees of literary taste, intellectual capacity and social refinement. It is no longer so new that it needs to an-
